

To the Last Dance: A Partner's Story of Living and Loving Through Dementia
By Myrna Marofsky

Table of Contents

We Begin at the End—A Last Dance 1
Dare to Live and Love 4
Our Backstory 9

From Denial to Acceptance

No More Excuses 16
Now What? 22
We Need to Tell Our Stories 28
There Is No Cure—Yet 37

A Wedding Vow—Devotion

I Am Larry's Wife 44
Surrender Wasn't an Option 50

What about Me?

I Wasn't OK 56
Get Help! 61
I Was in the Right Room 66
The Gift of Therapy 69
Selfless Not Selfish 77

Attention with Intention

Moments Become Memories 88
Fear, Loss, and Love 96
Mirror, Mirror on the Wall 102

Finding Normal

Patterns, Routines, and Traditions 110
Doing, Helping, Living 119
Identity Protection 125
Almost Normal 133

The Scarlet "D"

Dementia-ism 142

Silent but Not Gone 151
The Fourth Question 157
Heart Warmers and Heart Breakers 163

Family Matters

Matriarch or Martyr 176
Courageous Conversations 183
The Nana and Papa Team 189
Together Fifty Years 196

It's Complicated

The Relativity of Time 206
Expect the Unexpected 212
The Lens of Loss 217
Where Are You Taking Me? 225

Running Out of Time

Relief 232
Time for Hospice? Really? 241
No, Thank You! 248
I Was Still in Charge 253
Hope Is a Process 259

Till Death Do Us Part

One Last Time 266
Goodbye, My Beloved 274
No Regrets! 282
Looking Back 285

Epilogue 291
Acknowledgments 298
About the Author 301
Where to Go Next 302